GLOHRA Field Trip to Geneva – Global Health Academy

1. General information

- 31.08. – 02.09.2022, Geneva
- 18 PhD students and post-docs + Academy Coordinator and Prof. Bruchhausen

2. Aims

GLOHRA places particular importance on cross-institutional and transdisciplinary efforts, knowing that the best research is collaborative. The field trip aims to connect the next generation of global health researchers with partners outside academia and offers the opportunity for early career researchers to:

- get insights on research activities of and with WHO and other international agencies
- see how research feeds into policy
- get to know how WHO and other international agencies operate at policy level
- establish networks with other early career researchers in GLOHRA
- network with staff of WHO and other international agencies to discover potential partnerships

4. Participation for GLOHRA members

GLOHRA will reimburse individual travel costs to Geneva and cover expenses for accommodation and entry fees. Please note that overseas health insurance (Auslandskrankenversicherung) and liability insurance (Haftpflichtversicherung) are required for participation.

We encourage early career researchers (PhD student or postdoc upon 7 years after receiving the doctoral degree) from all GLOHRA research disciplines to apply for the field trip. We will select 18 participants to ensure a balance of all GLOHRA research areas and expertise. Early applications and applications by early career researchers will be prioritized.

If you have questions or concerns, please don't hesitate to contact the Global Health Academy Coordinator Esther: academy@globalhealth.de

Please send the completed application form to the Global Health Academy Coordinator Esther: academy@globalhealth.de

Please apply as early as possible, but no later than 15 July 2022. The field trip will only take place with 10 or more participants.
