

Are you part of an international project and want to take your collaboration to the next level?

How can we build and improve trustful partnerships with our international colleagues within the given framework?

How can we co-create safe spaces for fruitful and equal conversations within our collaborations?

How can we facilitate collaboration processes by using participatory leadership mindset and methods?

We invite you to our case-based training on “Participatory leadership in Global Health collaborations”.

This innovative training format offers a trusting space for shared learning and reflection. After a short theoretical input on participatory leadership, in each session we use participatory methods to address your concrete experiences and practice-related questions.

Based on an interactive exchange amongst participants and the trainer, you can reflect your topics and find new insights, next steps or strategies for a more productive collaboration culture in your team.

THIS TRAINING IS SUITABLE FOR YOU IF YOU...

...want to learn more about participatory approaches and are interested in applying them in your work.

...want to overcome challenges such as tensions within your team or an ineffective process design in your projects.

...are looking for new ways to foster collaboration and participation.

...want to learn and reflect on how to co-create safe spaces for honest and fruitful conversations.
